

New Edison Co. Sierra Mountain Camp to Open

Roads are being bulldozed through "Camp Edison—Shaver Lake" public campground this week, and the High Sierra facility is expected to be ready for occupancy by about Aug. 15, Southern California Edison Co. officials announced.

Construction crews are pushing the work with all possible speed, after being handicapped by unfavorable weather during much of the past several months.

CAMPsites are being laid out, tables and grills are built and ready for installation, restrooms are nearing completion, Edison officials reported.

An unusual feature of the camp, they said, will be free electric cooking facilities, to be provided throughout the area designated for tent camping. Half of the 100-unit camp will be devoted to tents, and the other half to trailers.

There will be electrical connections at each campsite, so campers can plug in all the electric appliances they wish to bring along — from electric blankets to coffee pots.

PLENTY OF fresh water, including hot water for showers, also will be piped into the camp, which is located in a pine forest on the western edge of the lake, at an elevation of 5,370 feet.

Other facilities to be made available to the public will include a boat launching ramp and a group picnic area, it was announced. The lake is stocked with trout by the state department of fish and game.

All facilities will be provided on a first come, first served basis — although advance reservations will be taken for the group picnic area, which does not include overnight camping.

THE ONLY charge for campers will be a $1.00 registration fee, which is good for the entire season. There is a two-week limit on camping, in order to make the facilities available to as many people as possible.

Shaver Lake is approximately 50 miles northeast of Fresno, Calif., over state highway No. 168.

Construction of Camp Edison—Shaver Lake is the first step in a long-range public service recreation program by Edison, designed to provide camping,
